THE SUBWAY CARRIES 350,000.

SURFACE AND ELEVATED LINES SHOW SOME FALLING OFF.

Hedley Expects the Latter Roads to Lose 75.000 Passengers a Day-Effect Most Noticeable on Street Cars-Lit-Breakdowns Make Trouble.

The rush of travel which began on the subway when it was thrown open to the general public at 7 o'clock on Thursday evening was kept up all day yesterday, and in a modified form all last night.

It came at times in great waves that threatened to swamp everything before them. In what might be called the lulis it was a steady stream of great volume. In these quieter intervals the number who went down the steps of the City Hall station averaged from fifty to sixty-five per minute. At the Bridge station they ran up as high as 70, 80, and more than 100, at times, per

350,000 PASSENGERS YESTERDAY.

Mr. Hedley, the general manager of the road, estimated last night that the number carried between midnight on Thursday and midnight on Friday would be about 350,000. The number carried between 7 o'clook Friday evening—the opening hour— and midnight was 111,881. This was at the rate of 22,376 1-5 per hour. The total carrying capacity of the road with its present equipment of 45 trains-20 expresses and 25 locals-is about 25,000 per hour.

The reason that the full carrying limit during the five hours was not reached was not owing to lack of people to make up the quota. But notwithstanding the weeks the road has been in training, it has not yet got quite limbered up to its full effective-

LITTLE HITCHES WERE MANY.

There were delays to expresses above Ninety-sixth street, for instance, and there were delays at stations. People have not yet got quite used to the new doors and the enclosed car platforms. The doors are heavy and do not slide to and fro as readily as do those of the elevated trains. It will take several days of practice on the part of guards and of experience on the part of the crowds themselves before delays of this sort are done away with. EFFECT ON ELEVATED LINES.

Everybody was curious yesterday to know the effect of the new line on elevated railway and surface line travel. Mr. Hedley for the Interborough Company had men at various points and travelling up and down the lines, studying the effect on the elevated trains. As the result of their observations Mr. Hedley last night said:

There has been an effect on the elevated railroad travel, but it is not very great and is confined mostly to the local trains. Three men whom I had travelling on express trains of the elevated during the rush hours this morning reported that they could not see any difference in travel as compared with days before the subway was opened.

*On the local trains, however, there was a noticeable difference, particularly on the Sixth avenue and Third avenue lines. I shall not before to-morrow have any acceptate figures that I could give as to what the effect was, but there was an effect

But there is one thing to be borne in mind. and that is that it is a very difficult thing to notice a difference in the tide of elevated

"The elevated railways carry approximillion on the East Side and half a million on the West Side. Now, there might be a fluctuation of 100,000 travellers in a day on these lines, and it would not be noticed. probably. Yet 100,000 is nearly a third of all we carried in the subway in the twentyfour hours between midnight Thursday and midnight Friday. I estimate the number carried in that interval at 350,000. I expect that when things have settled down it will be found that the subway will cut into the elevated travel to the extent of about 75,000 per day."

ON THE THIRD AVENUE LINE.

Notwithstanding the fact that those who reported to Mr. Hedley did not see much difference in the express train travel on the elevated, other observers saw a noticeable falling off. This was particularly the case in the rush hours at the City Hall station of the Third avenue elevated, although on general principles it would be assumed that that line would suffer about as little as any. In the express trains leaving between 5:45 and 6:15 last evening there were seats to spare in the forward cars in every instance, something that the platform men say they have rarely known.

On the Ninth avenue morning express many regular travellers got seats yesterday for the first time in many moons. These trains are generally packed to the limit. Several trains that were noticed vesterday morning had only five or six persons to a car hanging on straps, while the platforms were en pty. The uptown express trains on the Ninth avenue line during the evening rush hours were more nearly in their usual sardine-box conditions, yet even on these there was a shade more elbow

On the Sixth avenue elevated trains in the beginning of the rush hour there were seats to be had at Chambers street—something quite unusual—and the strap bangers were not much in evidence until Eighth street was reached. Yet the guard said that he had not been able to notice any particular falling off in travel and that yesterday forenoon his train was uncommonly full on the downtown trips. SURFACE TRAFFIC HIT HARDER. But it was in the surface car travel that the effect of the subway was most noticeable. The through Breadway cars and the cars of the Third and the Fourth avenue lines up as far as Forty-second street suf-fered the most. In the height of the rush hour last evening. when Breadway cars going uptown are usually filled to overflowing before they reach St. Paul's Church, a car bearded at Murray street had one passenger. Another got on at Chambers street. When Aster place was reached there had been thirty-six passengers on the car, all but eight of whom got off at Astor place or before reaching there.

The Lexington avenue and the Columbus avenue cars were better filled, yet looked curiously vacant as compared with their condition at that hour in the past.

Cars of the Third avenue and the Fourth avenue lines, went up the Bowery in the rush hour last evening with barely a dozen passengers each. This, however, did not passengers each. This, however, did not passengers each. This, however, did hold good above Forty-second street. did not

EFFECT ON ONE CROSSTOWN LINE. Even the crosstown Forty-second street line was affected. The falling off in travel during Friday night was so great that many cars were withdrawn a little after midnight. Those who ride on the Fortysecond street cars at night vibrate between froadways and the forty-Broadway and the Grand Central Station.

CHANGES IN THE POST OFFICE. They Are to Be Made After the Appoint ment of Van Cott's Successor.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 .- The announcement is semi-officially made here that mmediately on the appointment of a sucsessor to the late Postmaster Van Cott mportant changes will be made in the New York post office. The postal officials still nsist that an investigation was not in conemplation prior to the death of Mr. Van Cott and that there is no intention to make one now. All that is necessary, it is pointed out, is to make changes in the administration of the office with a view to improving he service. There is a possibility that additional stations may be established, but as yet no conclusions have been reached. It is probable that nothing will be done in this connection until the completion of the post office stations at the Grand Central and the proposed Pennsylvania depots.

The postal business has grown at a tremendous rate in New York during the past few years, that office turning in at least 12 per cent. of the total postal revenues. More modern methods will be introduced in this office, and it is understood that there is a possibility of changes in some of the important administrative positions. No action will be taken by President Roosevelt looking to the appointment of a postmaster at New York for several weeks. So far no recommendations have been made for any appointment. It seems to have been accepted by New York Republican leaders that there is no prospect of an appointment for some time to come, and consequently no one has been urged for

CAMPANIA IN EARLY.

But Will Not Dock Until This Morning -Indians on Board.

The Cunard liner Campania from Liverpool and Queenstown might have beaten her record for the year if she had ventured to dock last night. She has been a Saturday morning boat so long that the friends of her passengers naturally assumed that the would not get in until this morning. But her early appearance off Fire Island led many to think that she might "make it," and they called up the line on the telephone and asked if she would dock. They were told that she might get up at about 9:30 o'clock. A throng waited for her in vain. They were told that she had anchored in Quarantine and they went home.

The dock superintendent naturally posed that Capt. Pritchard would have plenty of time to get up. But the line leaves the question of docking to its commanders, and Capt. Pritchard decided that it was better to anchor at Quarantine. He did not dock, much as he might have liked to get ahead of the French liner La Savoie, which landed her passengers before 9 o'clock last on Wednesday, there was a war dance in which fifty Indians, called from the second cabin and steerage, took part.

Some of the Cunarder's voyagers were Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), Major John M. Burke, Capt. W. R. Corfield, Richard K. Fox, Sydney Goddard, William Hartfield, M. Theodore Kearney, Theodore W. Myers, Chief Iron Tail and a band of Sioux ong to the Buffalo Bill show At the entertainment aboard the liner

BAN ON FRAUDULENT SCHEMES. Fraud Orders Against Two Get-Rich-Quick Concerns in This City.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 .- Vic Sloane, 116-118 West Forty-fifth street, New York city, dent and Mr. Cortelyou, has been debarred the use of the mails. and the acting Postmaster of New York has been ordered to stamp all mail addressed to him "fraudulent" and return it to the senders. Sloane operated a turf concern. He has been soliciting remittances of money from the public for wagers on the result of horseraces. He represents that in the near future there will be run a race wherein the odds on the winner will be approximately 150 to 1; that on such a proposition $10 will earn $1,500 and $20 will win $3,000.

"The scheme is palpably a fraud," says the department order

The use of the mails has also been denied to the United Brokers' League, 44 Broadway, New York, a et-rich-quick concern, Promises were made to clients that they would receive 11 per cent. interest a month on their investments. It was developed that dividends were not always paid, and when payments were not aways paid, and when payments were made they were not the profits on investments. The post office officials failed to locate the members of the firm, as did the New York police force, and the offices were found closed on Cct. 13 last. It was discovered, how-ever, that no compliance had been made with the New York law on coparmership, and the police instituted a search for the violators of that ordinance. The United Commercial violators of that ordinance.

SET ON FIRE BY THIRD RAIL Workman on Sixth Avenue Elevated

Touched It With Wire. A gang of men were at work yesterday afternoon with a riveting machine on the Sixth avenue elevated structure on Fiftythird street, near the West Side police court prison, when a coil of wire in the hands of one of them, James Long, 23 years old, of 317 East Seventieth street, came in contact with the third rail. The wire burst into flame and Long's clothes were ablaze in a minute. The men were standing on a staging suspended from the tracks, and there was no room to put out the blaze. The other no room to put out the blaze. The other men shouted to Long to jump. He did so, and received a fracture of the shoulder and several bruises. He tried to get up and run, but several men threw coats about him and put out the blaze.

James Nolan, one of the men who had told Long to jump, shouted to the crowd:

"Don't touch him. I'll put the fire out myself."

Then Noian jumped into the street to be ready to help Long. He broke his ankle, but was able to get on a car and go to Roosevelt Hospital, where his injuries were treated. He went home.

Coroner Scholer happened to be driving along Fifty-third street just as the two men jumped from the staging. When he

He found some linseed oil in a nearby paint shop, and with the nurse's assistance bandaged up the injured man. He didn't learn the timely nurse's name.

An ambulance turned up, but there was nothing for it to do, as Coroner Scholer put Long into his buggy and drove with him to the hospital. When the doctors examined Long they found that, besides the injury to his shoulder, he was burned all over the body and would probably die.

CORTELYOU TO MAKE ANSWER

HE WILL REPLY TO HIS CRITICS AT DURLAND'S NEXT FRIDAY.

announcement From Washington, Where the National Chairman Has Been Conferring With the President-He Will Become Roosevelt's Mouthplece.

Chairman Cortelyou of the Republican national committee is to speak next Friday night at the meeting to be held in Durland's Riding Academy by the West Side Republican Club. This was announced last night by William L. Ward, one of the members of the Republican national executive committee, who vesterday, after the departure of Mr. Cortelyou and Senator Scott, was in charge of national headquarters.

The fact that Mr. Cortelyou will appear on the platform next week caused considerable surprise last night among those who heardfof his intention. In the several weeks in which he has been at the national headquarters he has not once spoken for publication. He has insisted all along that his office was one which required silence. From the beginning he made that position so clear, and so frankly explained his reasons for it that his refusals to answer inquiries never gave rise to hard feelings in his callers.

Mr. Cortelyou would not budge from the stand he had taken, even when some of the metropolitan newspapers were daily attacking him, accusing him of using the information about the workings of the big corporations which he had obtained as Secretary of Commerce and Labor to force large contributions out of them.

When Mr. Cortelyou left town on Thursday it was with the avowed intention of going to Washington first to see the President and then to Chicago to look after the campaign in the West. It was thought last night that his change of plans must undoubtedly have been suggested by the President himself.

President Roosevelt and Mr. Cortelyou and several conferences yesterday according to information which came to this city from Washington. At the close the news was sent here that Mr. Cortelyou would return to the city and would speak next Friday night in Durland's Academy.

So far as could be learned, Mr. Cortelyou did not come to town last night. At a late hour he had not reached the Hotel Manhattan, where he stays when in the city, but he is expected here to-day to mak arrangements to speak at the Friday meeting. It is probable that he may then go on to Chicago for a day or two to carry out the plans he had mapped out there.

Mr. Cortelyou will devote his speech to answering the attacks which have been made upon him personally and through him on President Roosevelt. These attacks have been mainly to one effect—that he has been sweating the corporations and has been bringing pressure to bear ipon them by reminding them of the knowledge he had obtained regarding them as head of the Department of Commerce and Friends of Mr. Cortelyou who know him and his disposition well said last night that if he had been left to follow his own inclinations he would never have replied to these attacks. The inference is that Mr. Cortelyou has been urged by the President to refuse from the platform the insinuations which have been published by certain newspapers against both the Presi-

Mr. Cortelyou will merely use the meeting of the West Side Republican Club as a convenient means of getting his statement before the public. It is understood that the speech will be printed and will be sent out in pamphlet form all over the country so as to reach the voters before election. That the action Mr. Cortelyou has taken is inspired is apparent from the fact that it is unusual for the chairman of the national for years one of the leading Republicans committee to make a public address in the last days of the campaign.

CANDIDATES WAR OF WORDS Friends Fear Violence May Result if Gov Durbin and Nominee Kern Meet.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28 .- The relations between Gov. Durbin and John W. Kern, the nominee of the Democratic party for Governor, are badly strained, and violence is feared by personal friends should the two men be thrown together. Both are high strung, impetuous and easily excited. The Governor has compared the Democratic nominee with a convict to the disparagement of the former, and Kern has accused the Executive of deliberate false-

Two years ago Kern replied to a letter from a convict named Fleming, who had asked for a pardon, that the best way to secure it was to get the services of some Republican wirepuller who could render efficient service in a ward primary or a county convention. It appears that the Governor held the letter for two years, giving it out yesterday with the statement that Fleming had voluntarily sent it to him and that a man who would address such a letter to a convict is not fit to be Governor. To-night Kern gave out a carefully pre-pared statement in which he says he wrote the letter, knowing it would reach the Governor through some of his henchmen at the prison. He then says:

"I do not believe that John Fleming ever saw the letter. If he did he would quite likely deliver it up propulated on the re-likely deliver it up promptly on the re-quest of the prison officials who acquired a reputation for abusing insane convicts When Gov. Durbin insinuates that John Fleming gave up that letter voluntarily and without request, if he ever saw it, he utters a deliberate falsehood."

NO INDICTMENTS FOR LYNCHERS. Statesboro Grand Jury Does Nothing, b

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 28 .- The Grand Jury Statesboro ended its work for the term o-day without returning any indictments against the lynchers of the negroes, Reed and Cato. Those implicated in the affair are, of course, jubilant. The non-action of the jury is a disappointment to others. Many persons are of the opinion that the Federal court, under Judge Speer, will now take the matter up and indict the vnchers in Savannah.

The jury's presentments say: "We deplore the recent acts of lawles: ness in our city and community, especially referred to by his Honor, Judge A. F. Daly, in his able charge. The work looked as if it had been done by some one with an intimate knowledge of the house and location of the lewels. The servants were in their quarters

She had purposely placed them in a candy box to escape the attention of a possible burglar. Mrs. McCarthy is the wife of ex-State Senator John McCarthy, of 189 Montague street, Brooklyn. The train was filled with Orange Democrats returning from a reception held in their honor by Judge Parker at Rosemount to-day. The wreck was due to the breaking of an axle on the tank. The tank, engine and six cars were thrown upon their sides clear of the track and down an embankment. The rails were torn away and went down with the train. Almost all of the passengers and rain crew were bruised and severely shaken up. Three persons were seriously injured, and George Waldorf, of Middletown, who was most badly hurt, had a leg broken and was badly bruised wedding would take place on Nov. J. Mrs. Jordan is a wealthy widow of high social standing. Recently she received letters, presumably from Washington, of such a shocking nature that Minister Corea has. taken steps to ascertain, if possible, the identity of the writer. Senor Corea comes from one of the best

Señor Corea has taken counsel of these friends, and they are assisting him in his endeavor to discover who is responsible for circulating the scandal.

He will not insist upon the fulfilment of the engagement between Mrs. Jordan and himself unless she becomes thoroughly satisfied that the accusations against him are untrue.

Senor Corea has been Minister of Nicar agua in Washington since Sept. 11, 1899. He is young and good looking and has been extremely popular in society. He has shown marked ability as a diplomat, particularly during the period when the Nicaraguan Government was endeavoring to have the United States select the transisthmian canal route through that country It was learned late to-night that the wedding has been postponed.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Oct. 28 .- The war crisis has passed for the time being. Russia and England have agreed to arbitrate the question of the responsibility for the North Sea outrage. With unexampled magnanimity, Great Britain has consented to make use of the machinery of The Hague Tribunal to determine, not the settlement of

As Mr. Balfour clearly indicated in his speech at Southampton to-night these facts are really beyond dispute. The sole object in submitting the evidence to an international board is to keep within the jurisdiction of diplomacy an issue which otherwise would plunge two great Powers

PRANCE GAVE GREAT AID.

This result has been achieved only with the greatest difficulty, and it is due largely to the earnest unofficial intercession of France. It is suggested to-night-and St. Petersburg reports seem to bear out the suggestion-that M. Delcassé, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, appealed to the Czar's vanity by urging that the situation afforded him a signal opportunity of attempt to blow up with dynamite the tion afforded him a signal opportunity of McKinnon Hotel, while W. No other plea could have been so effective. The Czar's imperial duties are a heavy ing dynamite and gun cotton. It is said that | Hague Peace Conference was almost the only important public matter which ever aroused his genuine interest and pride. It is easy to believe, therefore, that an appeal to use it in averting a war otherwise inevitable would arouse in him sufficient courage and determination to enable him to thwart the arrogant advisers to

Count Lamedorff is more or less openly despised and flouted by the directors of both naval and military departments, who will do everything in their power to rob the present concession to British demands of any practical effect. It is quite true, as noted in one St. Petersburg despatch, that they regard the halting of the Baltic fleet for the purpose of an inquiry into the North Sea incident as constituting in itself a greater disgrace and humiliation to Russia than anything that has happened in the Eastern campaign. These are the fire-eating gentlemen who sent out the fleet with orders sweeping enough to justify it in firing at any vessel which happened to lie in its path or which

In the hands of these men will lie the duty of punishing such officers as may be held responsible for the outrage. It is more than probable that the discipline in such case will be of the Chinese description, where the victim is nominally punished. but really rewarded. The British Government probably is under no delusions upon this point. The reference to an international tribunal by no means disposes of the demand for punishment in addition to apology and indemnity.

But the chief object of the reference, and the point now definitely gained, has been the postponement of the whole issue until the intense passion which has been aroused in both countries has time to cool. That having been accomplished, it is extremely improbable that the future refusal or neglect of Russia to carry out her implied pledge of retribution will again bring the
